Legal information and rules for participation in the Mitsubishi Elbetreffen

Article 1 – General liability issues

I/We participate in the event and its offerings at my/our own risk and voluntarily.

By participating, I/we irrevocably waive any right to take action against instructors, organization, site owners and organizers for any accidents and damages arising in connection with this event.

As the owner of the vehicle, I am personally liable – both for my own vehicle, which I use to attend the meeting, and for any damage caused to other vehicles or property as a result of my actions or the actions of the accompanying persons travelling in my vehicle.

The undersigned confirms with his/her signature that he/she has taken note of the contents of this waiver of liability and to have expressly acknowledged this. The respective vehicle owner also assumes responsibility with his signature about all passengers travelling in their vehicle. Parents are liable for their children. All games aimed specifically at children do not include any childcare provided by the organizer. Children must never be left unsupervised at any time!

Article 2 – Road traffic law

Both on the grounds and especially during activities outside the event area, I as a participant am subject to the generally applicable traffic regulations (speed, right of way, alcohol, vehicle registration, etc.). Participation in the event does not release me from the applicable regulations of the StVO, StVZO or FZV. Drivers who take part in the night rally or the car parade are required to take part in the designated driver briefings and to attend the resulting instructions.

Article 3 – Harmful events, criminal offences and other misdemeanors

All legal regulations of our society (criminal law, criminal procedure code, civil law, public rights) are also binding within the event area. Should damage to vehicles or property occur, the parties to the damage will settle this among themselves. This disclaimer of liability releases the organizer from any joint liability in the event of damage that is not caused by his actions or work. If events are relevant to criminal law, the organizer will call the police and regulatory authorities for help and work closely with the responsible authorities to clarify the situation. In these cases, the personal data of affected participants will be made available to the investigating authorities. The results of the investigation into a criminal or civil law matter can lead to disciplinary consequences for the person responsible, including from the organizer. This also applies to social aspects such as dealing with lost property, pets brought along and joint liability for one's own children.

The organizer has the right to control the venue. Special specific rules for interaction may apply here. The organizer's ORGA team is authorized to give instructions within the event area and acts on behalf of the organizer. ORGA people can show identification.

Article 4 – Medical care

The organizer informs all participants about emergency procedures before and during the event. Specific instructions are given for special program content (e.g. car parade or orientation tour). A small contingent of medication and dressing materials is kept at the entrance to ensure first aid. Emergency numbers are posted and made known several times.

Article 5 – Legal framework of the event

The event has been registered with all relevant local authorities. The responsible regulatory authority is the Bad Schmiedeberg town council and the Wittenberg police headquarters. These and other authorities may carry out checks during the event (e.g. health department, police checks, public order office). The employees of these control bodies and their instructions must be fully followed after they have identified themselves as such. They are authorized to give instructions beyond the event law.

Article 6 – Image rights, image liability and data protection

By signing this document, the participant agrees to the following in case of winning a trophy or a non-cash prize: to be available for some winning photos after the award ceremony, which will serve as proof to our sponsors and dissemination via the media.

The organizer undertakes to publish the personal data sent to him by the participant only partially and within the scope of the necessary requirements on the web (e.g. registration list for the event, winners list after the event). Passing on the data received from participants to third parties (e.g. advertising companies, market research) is completely excluded. We guarantee this! (Exception: official investigations)

Article 7 - Animals

Animals brought along, in most cases these will be dogs, must be kept on a leash or in a cage during the event, which prevents the animal from escaping, but also protects it from unauthorized access. The animal must not be left unattended at any time. For certain breeds of dog, the special regulations for Saxony-Anhalt apply (e.g. fighting dogs). The animal must be kept in a cage.

Duty of care, e.g. walking the dog, feeding it, properly disposing of the droppings, rests solely with the owner.

The organizer is responsible in this regard free from any responsibility.

If support is needed, everything you need can be requested at the entrance.

Article 8 – Disturbance of the peace, acoustics, night-time rest

From 11 p.m. every evening on the event weekend, each participant must ensure that the noise from the event is limited to a level that is tolerable for the residents. After 11 p.m. only the DJ makes noise or loud music. Speed organs, Revving engines or loud music systems should be avoided in the interests of good coexistence with the inhabitants of the host town, also outside the premises (e.g. when driving through the town or during an orientation trip).

Article 9 – Code of Conduct

If you notice that one of your friends or family members has or is having problems with other guests, you are required to de-escalate the conflict. In conflict situations, try to defuse the mood and separate the disputing parties. Calm down participants you know and ensure that the situation is resolved without injury or aggression. Many participants do not like it when their vehicles are simply touched, touched or otherwise taken over by other, usually strangers, visitors. In individual cases, this may also include taking photos of the vehicles. Please note this, especially if these are the wishes of the vehicle owner. If you are unsure how and whether you can work on someone else's vehicle, try to find the owner and ask them beforehand if necessary. This can often prevent misunderstandings.

Remember that other people will constantly see you at the event and your behavior will be judged accordingly. Personal habits should only be lived out in such a way that other guests are not offended or otherwise disturbed by them. This is especially true for the cleanliness of your pavilion or the parking area for your vehicle. The organizer has numerous options for waste disposal. Use them! Before leaving the Elbe meeting, we ask you to leave the area you used for your club or vehicles as clean as you found it when you arrived.

Article 10 - Final declaration

Only correctly and completely filled out participation declarations from the organizer, whether downloaded in advance or directly at the Tickets issued for admission entitle you to participate in the event. Please read the rules carefully, because by signing you agree to behave within these general conditions at the event.
